To the Last Throaty Gobble

Up, America and do battle! That bird, which on one day of the year is permitted to bat for the eagle, is threatened—gravely threatened by a foreign invader.

From Washington comes the word that the ocellated Honduran turkey is to be imported to the United States, to be propagated, perhaps to supplant the baryard gobbler, which is part of our national history.

And why? Forsooth, because the Latin bird is the more beautiful they say.

Another American institution is threatened by a beautiful thing out of the jungles that cover the lost Mayan cities. From a thousand American baryards rises a red-wattled gobbler of protest. The turkey of New England, and all America, the turkey of the Pilgrims, aye, the sheen-bronzed lord of the fanning tail, who aforetime came in from the woods to make friends with the annual axe by the woodpile in the farm yard, is threatened by a rank outsider. Submit to it? Forbid it, American tradition. Caesar had his Brutus, King Charles his Cromwell, is the American turkey to be "Snuck up on," as they say in the Carolinas, by a gorgeous whatnot, be he ever so gorgeous, whose ancestors never tickled a Pilgrim palate? Not so long as we remember the white-collared and the bell-runged underclasses of Plymouth where a man was a man and a wishbone was a wishbone.

We care not what other nations may do. Let them eat what they list and how they list, but when we list, let it be with the bird of our forefathers and no ocellated feathered fluff from tropic clime. Every pound of sausage meat backs protest; every chestnut burrs dissent; every oyster snaps viciously at the intruder. The cranberry blushes with shame; the pumpkin pie is squashed by the ignominy of the prospect. Even the corn looks on in amazement, wondering if this thing could possibly happen to its ancient gastronomic contemporary of the first American firesides.

Bird's nests to the Chinese, if they will, pheasants to the British, quail to the French and allaloo birds to the Eskimos, but as for us, give us our own gorgeous hobnob, or give us—porkchops!—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

NEW YORK IS ADOPTING THE BUS IN PLACE OF STREET CARS

Bus Service Proving Satisfactory for Surface Transportation in the East

By ROBERT SHAW
Reprinted from The Oakland Post-Enquirer by special permission. (Mr. Shaw was sent by The Oakland Post-Enquirer to importation cities of the east and middle west where he made a thorough study of the best transportation services.)

New York, Facing the Hardest Transit Problem in the World, Is Planning to Eliminate Surface Trolley Cars Entirely

New York's buildings are not overwhelmingly higher than buildings in other large cities; New York people are not noticeably different; New York stores are not noticeably more attractive.

But New York is most remarkable and impressive as a vast transportation mechanism.

A huge subway system burrows beneath the foundations of skyscrapers, beneath harbors and piers. Elevated lines radiate for miles from Manhattan into Brooklyn, the Bronx, Queens.

Everywhere rapid transit service is given precedence in importance over slow, local service. That is a necessity in New York; the life of the city could not go on without express passenger transportation between the group of communities which together make up New York city, just as Oakland, Richmond, Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont, etc., make up this East Bay community.

On the surface modern motor buses are in evidence everywhere. (Continued to page 4)

J. Hall as instructed by the city council last Monday night will continue to look into the legal aspects of the lease as well as the possibility of acquiring the triangular piece of ground to "square off" the proposed site.

WILBUR PIERCE WELL ON WAY TO RECOVERY AT HOSPITAL

Third Man Was Seen Running From The Scene of the Shooting by Neighbor

Completely recovered from the shock which followed an attack on him by gunmen Saturday night Wilbur S. Pierce, popular young attorney and president of the Richmond Lions club, has been unable to give the authorities any clue as to the identity of his assailants from his bed in the cottage hospital.

Dr. E. R. Guinan, attending physician, last night stated that Pierce was in excellent condition physically with the exception of the gunshot wounds. He stated that his patient had withstood the shock well and that all fear of future complications had been taken care of with the exception of an infection, which is possible though not at all probable.

CLUES SHATTERED.

According to Dr. Guinan, Pierce is suffering from a shattered elbow in his right arm, the loss of the little finger to his left hand and shattered tendons and muscles of the right arm, in addition to a painful but not serious wound to his throat. Physicians expect to save the right arm, but fear is felt that there will be a complete loss of sensation in the arm and hand in addition to the fact that Pierce will not be able to use the arm and hand as he has in the past. Pierce is expected to be able to leave the hospital in about three weeks.

Every possible clue was run down Sunday and Monday by the police and deputies under Sheriff R. R. Veale, but without success. Assisted by statements from Pierce and his business partner, Tom Carson, authorities made a complete review of all cases in the law courts during the past few years and all questionable cases were immediately traced by the police.

A new angle to the case was given yesterday by William A. Hislop of the California Art Tile company, who stated that he went to his front door after the shot had been fired and saw a man running across a vacant lot at the corner. This man according to Hislop appeared to be carrying an automatic pistol.

This would indicate that more than two men who were seen by Pierce took part in the attack. The third man may have been stationed behind a tree or telephone post when the shooting started and unable to make the car which the assailants used after the shooting took to his heels in the opposite direction.

CAR SEEN OFFEN.

According to residents of the district, living on both sides of Eleventh street, near the Pierce home, a dilapidated small touring car with all curtains up has been seen parked in the block since Christmas time. The car was seen so frequently that it caused gossip, but no attention was paid to it other than passing remarks that some "spooners" seemed to like the location. Mrs. Tom Canello when interviewed by a representative of the RECORD-HERALD stated however that the theory that the couple were spooners had been routed a few days ago when it was found that the occupants of the car as a rule consisted of a middle aged woman and a young man. No trace has been seen of the car since the shooting and the number of the car was never secured.

SHOOTING RECONSTRUCTED

Officials reconstructing the scene of the shooting Sunday pointed out that the car used by the assailants had been parked on the wrong side of the street, headed toward Macdonald Avenue. It is possible to see directly into the living room of the Pierce home from the seat of a car parked in the position that the assailants car is said to have occupied. It is believed that the men who did the shooting sat in the car watching Pierce prepare to leave and then as he stepped from the door of his home left the car and approached Pierce, who had opened the door of his car which was (Continued on Page 8)

THIEVES BREAK OPEN P. O. BOX AT PITTSBURG

First Information of Robbery Are Uncancelled Checks Found on Streets

7,000 DOLLARS RECOVERED

Checks Could be Cashed by The Bandits by Erasing Cancellation Mark on Back

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11.—Uncanceled checks amounting to $7,000 found fluttering around the streets of Pittsburgh early this morning gave the first clue to the robbery of the Mercantile Trust Company postoffice box here which may entail the loss of thousands of dollars.

A large part of the $110,000 payroll of the Columbia Steel Corporation here is believed to have been in the box, which was broken open late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. After removing its contents the burglars closed the box. The theft was not discovered until police traced the source of the checks found in the streets.

The payroll was in the form of checks, indorsed and already cashed, but not perforated with the cancellation mark of the bank. (Continued to page 4)

WHY A FLEET?

A German steamship company offers $6,500,000 of bonds for sale to American investors.

These bonds are regarded as sound and safe investments—why? Because the steamship company is earning the bond interest four times over in a year and has seventy-four deep sea ships as security for the loan.

How and why such a great fleet has been brought to life by Germany in only seven years? How? Largely by government aid. Why? Largely to restore German business, to enrich the nation, to earn the surplus out of which reparations must be paid. Does the experiment pay? The advertised profits of $2,350,000 a year for one line give the answer.

The question then is: Will the United States solvent, victorious, bursting with money—have the enterprise to do for its ready-made fleet what poor, beaten, crippled Germany has done for the mere ghost of a fleet left her by the allies after the war? This question is being put before the American people today.

Germany understood that she could not restore and hold her business abroad unless she delivered her own goods. That is an idea to be grasped by the American business if it would retain and increase the new American trade built up in abroad in the last ten years—George W. Hinman in the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

AUTO DEATHS INCREASE

The death rate from automobile accidents is steadily creeping up in spite of the publicity campaigns and the additional safeguards taken by traffic experts everywhere against accidents. In 1921 the number of deaths per 100,000 of population from automobiles was 11.5. In 1922 the rate crept to 12.5, in 1923 to 14.99 and last year to 15.7 per 100,000 people. The figures were compiled from areas representing 85 per cent of the population of United States. In 1922 the deaths were 11,666, in 1923 the total climbed to 14,411 and in 1924 to 15,528.

Last year the highest death rate was in California, being 32 to each 100,000 population. Wyoming came next with 27.2 per 100,000 and then Florida with 22.6. The lowest death rate was reported by North Dakota with 6.6 per 100,000. Other states with low death rates were Mississippi, 7 per 100,000; Kentucky 8.0; Nebraska, 8.4; Iowa, 8.5; Kansas 9.4; South Carolina, 9.5, and Virginia, 9.9.

Paterson, N. J., was the most dangerous city so far as automobiles were concerned with 34.8 per 100,000 population. Pittsburg was second and Salt Lake City third. New York was way down in the list with 16.6 per 100,000 and Chicago with 19. Of course, the big cities had the most automobile deaths, but in many instances their death rate per 100,000 population was not so high.

Some Pages from American History

By VICTOR MORGAN

The March Across Our Biggest State

About the middle of the 16th century, an explorer wrote a book which tells his own story of his wanderings over the North American continent in those early days when explorers were more intent upon finding a route to India and the Spice Islands than they were upon finding new lands—unless the new lands would yield them the gold and wealth that they could find in the Far East.

The truth of this book has been questioned—as what letters and books of that day have not? Men's minds were in the flush of imagination and their stories were colored by their desires and beliefs.

Cabeza de Vaca was the name of the man. He was treasurer of an expedition that was appointed to conquer Florida. They had expected to find great cities and luxury. They found no such wealth. The country was beautiful, but the savages hostile.

Cabeza's book reads like an adventurer's tale; faced by starvation, adrift in open boats in an open sea, cast upon an island which they called Mal Hade (Misfortune). This island was probably on the coast of Louisiana.

Having at last got to the mainland, though half starved and naked, Cabeza wandered over the state of Texas. For eight years he traveled, now the slave of a hostile tribe, now the honored "medicine man" of a friendly group.

At one place the Indians asked him to effect a cure. Cabeza spoke to the sick man and he immediately became well, so the story goes. His position was assured in that tribe and his fame traveled to other tribes.

But as soon as he got beyond the more friendly tribes he was again subjected to hardship and misery.

Cabeza is said to have been the first white man to traverse the great southwest of our country. He crossed the entire state of Texas, went on through Mexico and is thought to have reached a point on the west coast below the middle of the Gulf of California.

Cabeza's return to civilization after his long absence set other explorers on their way. Every man wanted to out-do every other man. It was an era of conquest.

WHEAT CROP OF 1925 SHOWS LOWEST AVERAGE SINCE 1904

The 1925 wheat market has been one of many surprises for the growers of both winter and spring wheat, states the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions last winter, which caused a large abandonment of winter wheat acreage due to the winter killing of nearly ten million acres, of 22 1/2 per cent of the area shown in wheat, the total crop production in 1925 reached only 697,000,000 bushels as compared to 878,000,000 bushels the year before. With the exception of 1917, this is the heaviest abandonment of wheat area on record. The final harvest averaged only 12.7 bushels per acre, which is the lowest average since 1904. Spring wheat, which looked very promising at first, also lost heavily through injury from rust. The yield per acre was cut down to 13.3 bushels, which is 2.6 bushels below the 1924 average.

The carry-over of wheat from 1924 was moderate. From 635,060,000 to 650,000,000 bushels are required for domestic consumption. Exports up to the end of December were nearly 60,000,000 bushels, and the remaining exportable surplus is small. Both winter and spring combined production totaled 175,000,000 bushels less than in 1924, making it the smallest wheat crop since 1917 in terms of production, and in proportion to population, the smallest wheat crop since 1890.

Because of a belief in a world shortage, wheat prices early in 1925 reached a high level, going up to $1.98. When it became evident that the apparent world shortage had been exaggerated, the market declined rapidly and went as low as $1.46 in April. A rally in prices followed, based on a small domestic crop. Rumors of a large surplus in Russia and the Argentine were followed by another decline which reached the low point of $1.37 in early October.

ZERO HOURS OF AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS, 4, 5 AND 8 P. M.

ONE thousand thirty of Chicago's 11,785 auto accidents last year, according to the Stewart-Warner Safety Council occurred between five and six o'clock, just when congestion is at its worst in the home-going rush. Only 47 of these 1,030 accidents were fatal.

Four o'clock is the children's zero hour. Thirty-three of the 182 children killed by autos in Chicago last year came to grief at four o'clock, playing in the streets after school.

Seven to nine is the dangerous time for adult auto fatalities, according to Chicago's 1924 record. Eighty-six of 353 such deaths occurred around the theater-going hours.

SNAP-SHOOTING THE MILLENNIUM "Oh, mercy! How provoking!"

"Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS Prince Michael Yerevoff, wealthy Russian philanthropist in Paris, becomes interested in Colette, an American girl. His innocent brother, Paul, is seduced by Dolores, one of Michael's cast-offs, who uses him as a tool for revenge. Circumstances indicate that Colette stole the priceless Yerevoff emerald.

And Michael? What would he think when he found out that the little Colette, the "premiere danseuse of the Rue Chaligny," as she had crowned herself, was nothing better than a pickpocket? Visions of Michael's reproachfully accusing face, of Billy's sundered environment, rose like red spotlights before her inward eyes.

"The good God knows that if I took it, it would not be for my gain," she said aloud to herself. "It would be for Billy. But—tonight—I shall take it back to M'sieu Michael."

"The more fool you are, then," said a gruff voice behind her. Whirling around, Colette found Emile standing there with his greedy eyes fixed on the emerald. "Sacre, what a jewel!" he added. "Let me look at it."

Stoic and unshaven, Emile was a typical, predatory leader of the Parisian underworld. A cap pulled down tightly over his eyes, a red handkerchief caught loosely around his neck, accentuated the hawklike keenness and the shifty look in his small, ferret eyes. Emile was of the type that cannot see any advantage whatsoever in a man doing an honest day's toil and receiving an honest man's wage in return, when by manipulation of a light pair of fingers, for instance, one can realize more in an evening than by a month of manual labor. To him Billy was an inconvenience; he was fully content to let Colette devote her life to the care of the child. If he was lucky he would give her money—sometimes. If not, well, she was earning enough to look after Billy and herself and him, too.

"It's just a little stone that a friend of mine lost," Colette answered, nervousness making a dismal failure of her attempt to be nonchalant. "And I am taking it back to him tonight."

"Taking it back? Oh! Well, if you insist on being so thoughtful, I will be the messenger! But come now, let me see it."

"No, no, Emile, there is no need to look at it." She turned to slip the emerald into her stocking for safekeeping, but Emile caught hold of her with a grip of steel.

"You little fool!" he cried. "When we haven't any too much food in the house, and I've been needing money for weeks! Give it here!"

Colette struggled with desperate courage. But, of course, to no avail. A heavy hand stifled her attempts to scream; brute force tore her fingers apart, snatched the emerald from her. The fury of the wildcat was futile in the shaggy grasp of the gorilla. Finally, with a shove and an oath, Emile threw Colette to the floor, where she lay breathless, exhausted, and sadly bruised.

"Good God!" Emile muttered, gazing at the stone in his hand. "It is the largest emerald I have ever seen! Such cutting! And you," he glowered at Colette, "were going to be a nice girl and return it, eh. Well, I'll take good care of it now—and, you know, I may give you a new dress for a present tomorrow!" he concluded sarcastically.

Dragging the girl to her feet, he twisted her around until his mole face and smoldering eyes were close to hers.

"Remember," he snarled, "one word of this to anybody, or any more talk about returning the

Tire Repairing Cold Cash In Your Pocket

There are two ways to take care of a tire injury. One way is to put a blowout patch in the tire and let it stay there.

The other way—and the only good way—is to use the blow-out patch only as a temporary repair. At the first opportunity the tire should be taken to a competent and able vulcanizer for permanent repair. This means saving thousands of miles of the tire's life.

MANY THRILLS IN BIG GOLF TOURNAMENT

By DAMON RUNYON.
(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, Jan. 11.—That youthful Cossack of the golf course, Light Horse Harry Cooper of Dallas, Texas, who plays the game of golf like a wild-eyed cavalier riding to a charge—a slashing, dashing, crashing, hip-throating young blade—is the winner of the $10,000 Los Angeles open, the biggest golf stake ever contested.

He came tearing up the last slope of the Los Angeles Country Club towards sundown yesterday afternoon, his head bare, his carefully slicked back hair glinting with oil and perspiration, and behind him, panting several thousand men and women as he trotted to his final shot, swinging a golf club like a sabre.

Ten feet of bright green grass stretched between the little white pellet and the cup, and folks scarcely dared breathe as Light Horse Harry, with steady hands, gave the ball a gentle whack with his putter.

It rolled along wobbling drunkenly for an instant, but quickly straightening out and falling noiselessly into the cup, while everybody let out a big cheer, all the louder from being so lightly suppressed.

That whack gave Light Horse Harry a 67 for the afternoon, which tied the new course record established by young George Von Elm of the Rancho Club of Los Angeles in the tournament.

Light Horse Harry is only about 24 years old, and you can see from his manner of playing that he thinks golf is a cinch. His style is to take everything head-on. No dilly-dallying, or theorizing, or fooling around. Maybe Von Elm's record in the morning was the thing that stirred the Dallas demon this afternoon, because he made the final round in a series of furious lunges that had the gallery behind him roaring all around the course.

Von Elm, a blond youth of superior golfing skill, was second to the Dallas demon with 282. Light Horse Harry gets $3,500 for winning, but Von Elm only gets a golf medal because he is an amateur. Mr. Albert Ruben Espinosa, of Chicago, who is just plain Al to his fellow golfers, was tied with Joe Kirkwood, of Australia, for third with 285. They will split second and third prize money.

I doubt that there was ever a more spectacular finish in golf, or a more spectacular figure than this blazing young fellow from Texas, who throbs with youth and the joy of living, and who is firmly convinced that the only thing to golf is to haul off and bust the ball into the hole in the smallest number of strokes possible. It's a great idea, at that.

Coming up to the eighteenth hole both Cooper and Von Elm had perfect drives. Von Elm was four feet over the green in four cracks, while Cooper put second within ten feet of the cup. Von Elm's third just sort of grazed the cup—"Lipped" is the technical term I believe—and then it was that everybody held their breath while Light Horse Harry let fly.

You will never get black in the face holding your breath on face holding your breath on Harry's shots. He just pulls back and lets go. He holed his putt for an eagle three, as the experts say, and also for that coveted first place. Von Elm was down in four for a 70.

Both players swept around the first nine of the last eighteen in 33, Cooper then gaining a shot on the tenth, a four to Von Elm's five. Von Elm, who is a great young golfer, with plenty of dash himself, had birdie three on the eleventh and twelfth holes, gaining back the shot on "Light Horse" Harry.

The Dallas demon had one out of bounds on the long sixteenth, known locally as the reservoir hole, but halved the hole with Von Elm in six shots.

Thereupon, "Light Horse" Harry put spurs to his game, and began speeding. He went ahead by one stroke when Von Elm took a five on the fifteenth, where Harry

GRANGE THRILL FANS
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 11.—Red Grange gave 6000 fans a thrill when his Chicago Bears defeated the Southern All-Stars 14-0 on Sunday. Grange got off for a fifty-one yard run, Grange carried the ball sixteen times making on an average of four and one half yards each time. He was thrown for a loss two times; once for a two yard loss and once for a six yard loss.

NAVY BILL INGRAM
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 11.—Navy Bill Ingram will not coach the Navy team, according to Z. G. Cleveland, athletic director of the Indiana University.

Cleveland declared that he had accompanied Ingram and his all-star team back from California, and that Ingram has not received any contact from the Naval Academy.

NEVER INJURED
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 11.—Ernie Nevers, the blonde fullback of the Jacksonville all-stars, will be unable to play for a week, according to the attending physician. Nevers received torn ligaments in his back during the New York Giants-Jacksonville game here on Saturday.

LANDIS UPSETS DOPE
NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The demand made by Baseball Commissioner Landis that the league games should end on September 26, has thrown the baseball officials into a mix up. So far no agreement has been reached as to the number of games and their dates have been reached by the two committees of the major leagues. Probably there will be another meeting in the near future and an understanding might be reached.

had a par four. He was two strokes ahead when he had a birdie four on the sixteenth, and Von Elm a par five. Both had par threes on the seventeenth, and Cooper made his lead three shots with his eagle three on the eighteenth to a birdie four for Von Elm.

All of which is highly technical, and would not appear in this story except that it may convey to the omnivorous reader who likes his golfing technique, something of the manner in which "Light Horse" Harry Cooper came lunging out of the bosky dells as the sun was drifting from sight, and the cool of the evening was coming on.

Behind "Light Horse" Harry and Von Elm pounded a field of 70 of more or less distinguished golfers who had pulled and hauled for three days in the greatest tournament ever seen on the Pacific Coast. Among them at varying distances back were such as the stately Mac Donald Smith, one of the greatest golfers in the world, Bobby Cruickshank, Wild Bill Mehlihorn, John Black and many others.

At one stage of the proceedings today, a real sensation threatened when a little fellow named Vic Dalberto, assistant pro to Joe Norwood at the Los Angeles Country Club, got to ripping and tearing in a manner that indicated he might be the winner. He is only 23 and was practically raised on the home tees of the Los Angeles Club.

He was up there with the front runners for a time, then he dropped back when probably all the Los Angeles people on the course were pulling for him to win.

Light Horse Harry Cooper was one of the favorites among the experts to win the tournament from the beginning. He showed his speed in the Long Beach open, until he got to hitting the ball into wayside roadways and he "figured" as you might say. There are no wayside roadways close to the course of the Los Angeles Country club.

He was born in England, so he told me yesterday, but was raised in Dallas, where his father is a golf professional. "Light Horse" Harry has a picture of himself at the age of ten with a sack of golf clubs over his shoulders, to prove that he started the game young. The only time he was not chatting freely during the fight was late this afternoon when he was concentrating on shooting at Von Elm's record.

He was beaming with pleasure over his exploit especially when he was handed his check for first money. I rather doubt that the victory was wholly unexpected to young Light Horse Harry Cooper, however. He produced in me that impression that he would win from the start, because I think he felt he would win. In fact, I am inclined to the belief that Mr. Light Horse Harry Cooper came to Los Angeles for no other reason than to win.

Two Carloads of Buicks Unloaded By C. C. Kratzer

Two carloads of Buicks sent direct from the factory at Pontiac, Michigan, were received by C. C. Kratzer, local dealer, yesterday. This makes the eighth carload of the new cars that were received within the last few months.

The cars were paraded down Macdonald avenue. The shipment consisted of two Master Six two-door sedans; two Standard six two-door sedans, and two Standard six, four-door sedans.

He is about the most daring golfer the pastime has produced in many a day, so the lads with the Scotch accent tell me. They say he has a world of nerve, but no perves, there being quite a difference. He is by way of being a wonder, in short.

All the golfers, and many of the spectators gathered in the long room of the club house immediately after the tournament ended, where Mr. Ed. Tufts, chairman of the tournament, and the Judge Landis of the pastime in these parts, made a speech thanking the players, and his associates in the conduct of the tournament.

He then presented Jack Malley, the pro of the Annandale Club, and one of the leading spirits in the tournament, with a wrist watch as Malley blushed furiously but not as furiously as your correspondent when he was called on to present "Light Horse" Harry Cooper with his check for $3,500 by Norman Speer, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles.

You find touches of romance, and touches of human interest in these gold tournaments. Dewey Longworth, whose home was formerly in St. Louis, and his wife, were in an auto smash-up when they were en route to the Los Angeles Country Club this morning. Longworth went to the hospital with his wife and held her hand for more than an hour while the surgeons were cutting splinters of glass out of her face, then journeyed on out to the club and played the third round at her earnest request.

He was obviously unstrung when he teed off and took a seven on the par five first hole, was two over on two. Presently he pulled himself together, and came in in 37. He took 42 on the homeward jaunt, the gallery interfering with his play on the sixteenth. I call him a game fellow.

SAN FRANCISCO GETS ANOTHER BASEBALL TEAM

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—San Francisco gets continuous baseball. Salt Lake loses its Pacific Coast League franchise.

These two momentous questions were settled at the Baltimore hotel here tonight at the end of a three-days meeting of the league directors.

The Vernon club plays in San Francisco the coming season under the Mission banner, while the Salt Lake club comes to Wrigley Field, this city, under the name of The Hollywood Stars.

Joe Topitzky, local realtors representing Stanley Dollar, San Francisco shipping magnate, announced that he had paid Ed. H. Maier $250,000 for the Vernon franchise and the lease Maier held on Maier park, which covers six acres of industrial ground at Thirty-eighth street and Santa Fe avenue, Vernon.

William H. McCarthy, former Pacific Coast League president, addressed the meeting when it was definitely announced that he would be president of the Mission club.

J. Cal Ewing and those associated with him in the Vernon club will be paid $140,000 for permitting continuous baseball in San

Partial Schedule Of Junior High Basketball Teams

Due to the fact that the schedule is not complete the Roosevelt Junior High school engagers under Coach Henry Miner will not play for several days. During the last week Coach Miner has been giving his teams a stiff workout preparatory to the hard schedule that has been arranged so far.

Miner is drilling five weight teams that expect to come through with a good season. Games will be arranged with Oakland teams of the weight classes.

Efforts are being made by Miner to arrange games with the Edson, Garfield and Burbank Junior high school teams of Oakland. Miner announced the partial schedule as follows:

January 22, Crockett, here.
January 29, Napa, there.
February 5, Vallejo, there.
February 12, Crockett, there.
February 19, Napa, here.
February 26, Vallejo, here.

Dempsey Wills Fight On Coast

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills will fight for the heavyweight championship on early fall if the plans of several big local real estate men mature. The proposed fight at Michigan city has apparently fallen through and announcement was made here that plans are being worked out whereby a title fight will be held in the near future.

Francisco, which baseball law in the past has ruled was their territory for the half of the season.

Try
this better
cigarette
tobacco

JUST get yourself a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert. Roll a cigarette and light up. Half close your eyes and pull that wonderful, fragrant smoke deep down into your system. Boy, there IS a smoke! Cool as a breeze from the North. Sweet as apple cider.

P. A. is crimp-cut and stays put. Doesn't land in your lap or blow all over the landscape. Be glad that Prince Albert rolls easier, but buy it because it makes a better, tastier cigarette. You can prove that on your fingers, if you get what we mean. And you do.

You find touches of romance, and touches of human interest in these gold tournaments. Dewey Longworth, whose home was formerly in St. Louis, and his wife, were in an auto smash-up when they were en route to the Los Angeles Country Club this morning. Longworth went to the hospital with his wife and held her hand for more than an hour while the surgeons were cutting splinters of glass out of her face, then journeyed on out to the club and played the third round at her earnest request.

Prince Albert is comfortable too. Can't nip your tongue or play hob with your throat. The Prince Albert process clamped the lid on bite and parch at the very outset of P. A.'s brilliant career. Try a makin's cigarette with this better tobacco today.

By the way, Prince Albert goes great in a jimmy-pipe too. If you have never been able to hit it off with a pipe, try this friendly tobacco. Men who thought they never could smoke a pipe are now among P. A.'s most loyal fans. Get some P. A. today. Enjoy it either way.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Baby Saved From Heart Trouble

Nov. 6, 1925.
Our baby, Myrtle, had been ailing for about two years, during which time we had taken her to many physicians, none of whom knew what was the matter with her.

Myrtle steadily grew worse. Her heart beat rapidly and noisily, she had but little blood, and the pallor of her face was like the whiteness of a sheet of paper. She finally became so weak that she could neither walk nor eat.

Some doctors thought it might be her teeth, but they had all some thorough and she was getting worse every day.

We were recommended to see Fong Wan. He found that she was suffering from heart trouble. She has taken the Fong Wan Herbs for three months and is in fine health.

Wilbur Pierce Well On Way To Recovery

parked in front of his home. Pierce swung around when the gun was poked in his face, using his left hand to ward off what he expected to be a blow from a club. Instead the gun was discharged, tearing away the little finger on his left hand and his scarf as well as his scarf pin and parts of his coat and overcoat. Swinging around with his right arm in an effort to down his assailant, Pierce struck directly into the muzzle of the gun with his right hand, the second charge going down and into his right arm inflicting serious injury to that member. Seeing the second man at this time, Pierce ran for the light at Roosevelt and Eleventh street, so that he could see to protect himself. The assailant with the gun continued firing, but the last three shots are believed to have gone wild as indicated by the appearance of a telephone post and tree where most of the shots lodged.

FIVE SHELLS FOUND.

Police found four shot gun shells fitting a 12 gauge gun on the parking between the sidewalk and the street Saturday night and Sunday morning found the fifth shell underneath Pierce's car. It appeared as though the assailant had fired the first two shots from a position directly in line with the rear set of Pierce's car and then stepped to the front of the car where the other three shots were fired. Police Chief Dan Cox stated last night that he did not boarded the train at Guadalajara and that when the train neared Yurucaro, in the state of Michoacan, they locked the train doors, slit the throats of the guards and then began a systematic search for General Ferreira.

"The general was with me but he had the fore-thought to shift from military to civilian garb before he boarded the train, it was passed by, unrecognized.
"Colonel Nunez dressed as a train hand entered our coach, leveled his revolver at all of us and requested.
"Will the American kindly step forward?"

"I was the only American in the coach I stepped forward. The colonel took a good look at me saw the four car ring on my finger, my platinum watch chain but tied to take neither. Instead he requested the "loan" of my revolver saying.
"A thousands pardons, Senor but I may need it. With your permission Senor."

"Then Nunez walked down the corridor passed the General unaware and suddenly pounced on a Mexican and his wife who were sitting in the rear of the coach. One of his followers shouted:
"This woman is carrying secret papers to the capital."
Russell said that both the man and his wife were asked to stand while their possessions were searched and then both were shot.
"While this was taking place from time to time I heard screams from the other coaches, screams broken and silenced by revolver shots. Finally all of us survivors were politely requested to step out.

"Gasoline was then poured on the train and a match set to it. More than half a hundred bodies were burned on the impromptu funeral pyre and all the while those screams would assure the Americans that no harm would be done to us."

Tonight the hills are being scoured by military detachments who have ordered to capture the murderers "dead or alive." The bandits are said to have got more than a quarter million pesos booty as the result of the train raid.
